Detroit Section Meeting Notice

December 2020

Date: Tuesday, December 8th, 2020

Time: 7:00 PM

Topic: Capturing Remote Content with Ross Production Cloud

Speakers:

Amanda Holtstrom – Product Manager, Ross Production Cloud, Ross Video

Amanda Holtstrom is the Product Manager for Ross Production Cloud at Ross Video. A computer engineer, Amanda has spent her career designing and delivering software systems to address key problems to a variety of industries. An advocate for great design and simple interfaces, Amanda joined Ross Video over a year ago and is also responsible for DashBoard and other production workflow solutions that Ross customers use to create amazing productions.

Grant Brennae – Product Specialist, Ross Production Cloud, Ross Video

Grant Brennae is the Product Specialist for Ross Production Cloud. Having over a decade of engineering experience in mobile and remote television production, Grant has a unique customer minded focus on delivering products that integrate seamlessly into existing workflows and infrastructure. Grant guides the design of Ross Production Cloud at Ross by offering a client perspective on the design and use of Ross products to deliver solutions that meet real-world production challenges.

Location: Online

Together we'll take a look at the changes that the pandemic has wrought within the production industry and the subsequent rise of remote productions. We'll take a look at the products and services that Ross Video has in place to address our customers and partner's needs for capturing remote content and running productions remotely. With some direct examples from recent Ross Esports projects, we will explore new aspects of production.

The meeting will be held online. See below for connection details. If you are not a member of SMPTE or have an additional e-mail address, please join our groups.io group to receive meeting notices and other information from the Detroit Section.
